Dear Paul,

Paul Rothermel asks me if I have any information on what he describes as a nationalist group called "Joven America". He describes them as I presume they describe themselves, as Ibero-American. They have a publication, "Accion". One of the leaders is Eduardo Reyes.

I recall all three names, but do not recall how. I am certain it is a youth group, fascistic or semi-fascistic, but I could be wrong. I presume they have asked for help. If they are at all fascist, I certainly would like to be able to let him know, for it is his desire, I am confident, that no such get help. They all make their pitches as merely "conservative". Among those of the Latins who have recently made (unsuccessful) bids are Bringuier and Penabaz.

In the part of my files I have organized there is no mention.

Does any of you know anything about them? Is it possible to learn by phone whether they are in the Stamford archive?

Sincerely,

COPY
